A RECONSTRUCTION BILL. been drafted and presented to several Sena. tors and Representatives and will probably be offered immediately after the organization of the House, if it is not previously introduced in the Senate. It is known that several leading gentlemen from the South approve of the main features of the bill:

An act to provide for the organization of govern-ments for the States heretofore in rebellion. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Expresentatives of the United States of Amer-tra, in Congress assembled, That, in order to enable the people of the States heretofore in rebellion to resume their relations to the Federal Union, a Governor shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Seinste, for each of the said States, to wit Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Tennessee, and Adviscors, and these Arkansas; and the government in each of the said States shall be instituted and conducted as follows: The Governor shall have the power of appointment of all executive and judicial officers within the State, according to the laws of the State in force at the time of his laws of the State in force at the tims of his entering into office, except such laws or en-actments as may have been passed by a Legislature recognizing and co-operating with the so-called Confederate government after the passage of the ordinance of seca-sion in such State. The salary of the Gov-ernor shall be as provided by the laws of the State.

Sec. 2. And be it further engeted. That the Sec. 2. And be it further charted. That the Governor shall appoint and cause to be organized, according to the laws of the State supreme and inferior courts therein, which shall administer justice, and be governed in their decisions by the laws of the Governed at the entering into office of the Governed herein previded for, except such laws or enactments as may have been passed by a Legislature recogniting and co-operating with the so called confederate government after the passage of the ordinance of secession in such State, and excepting further all laws recogniting and excepting further all laws recognitions. esage of the ordinance of several laws recognic, and excepting further all laws recognic, and exception of slavery or distinction of slavery or distinction of slavery or distinction of slavery or distinction of slavery or distinction. nizing the lastitution of slavery or distinc-tions between the rights and privileges of citizens before the law on account of color.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the proclamations and public orders of the Governor shall have the force and effect of law Proceided. That any part of such pro-clauations or orders that may conflict with or repeal any law or part of a law of the State, in force as aforesaid, shall require the ap-proval of the President of the United States, and be duly promalgated with such approval before having the force of law. Sec. 4. And be it further enacted. That the Governor shall, as soon as he shall find it practical and expedient, or when thereto spe-cially instructed by the President of the Uni-ted States, proceed to cause one or more re-gistries for voters to be opened in each of the gistries for voters to be opened in each of the counties of the State. He shall appoint registers and make such regulations as may be necessary in carrying on the registering of the voters. All male inhabitants born in the United States, or naturalized as citizens thereof, or who have declared their intentions, and the youth will enter "a new boy" in the course of the present thereof, or who have declared their intentions to become citizens, shall, upon taking the following oath, be considered and placed upon the registry as qualified voters:

Water, water, nowhere about the northers paper mills! The drouth that has afflicted New England this season has produced a terrible scarcity of paper, and raised the price of that necessary article several cents per pound. Even the Treasury Department feels the ef fects of the drouth, and its agents are buying up all the English bank-note paper they can find in market. We learn that another cause of the scarcity of bank-note paper is, that the manufacturers have found it more profitable to produce paper shirt collars. paper makers should remember, however, that this business must have its limits; for if the Government is cut off from printing "spendulies," how will they get their pay for their shirt collars?

The sympathies of the people of this coun try have ever been unmistakably with CARRY; and lately the Government has given a bold expression to that sympathy Mr. SEWARD'S Auburn speech had some significance upon this subject. The speech of Gen. GRANT, at the Union League Rooms, in New York, last week-when, for the first time in his life, he expressed an opinion upor a public question in that way-was justly taken by the public as a very important sign of the times.

A gentleman who arrived here on Saturday from New York, and who was present at the time, informs us that a very important past of the reply of Gen. GRANT was omitted in e published report. In closing, after en forsing all that Mr. BERKMAN said, the General remarked as follows: "This is one of the few questions on which I allow myse'f to speak freely."

The Albany Evening Journal says it umored that Gen. Scocus is likely to receive an important appointment on the New York Central railroad. This would be an acof simple justice at the hands of DEAN RICH. MOND, whose political plans involved his personal destruction.

Col. Halving, editor of the New York Chizen, in answer to certain false statements, says: "The Citizen is the property of its editor, and of him alone, absolute and uncontrolled." Better yet, we understand that it is property worth having.

ADJOUENMENT OF THE GRAND JURY—
THEIR VISIT TO THE JAIL—OFFICIAL REPORT.—
The grand jury of this District adjourned today, having completed the business of the torm.
This affersoon they presented to the Court the following official report of their visit to the jail:
The the Honorable Andrew Wylfe, Judge of the Criminal Court!
In conformance with the usual custom of the grand jury at the close of their labors, they beg to submit the following report:
On the Thi Instant like Grand Jury made their official visit to the County Jail. A thorough inspection of the building showed to our entire satisfaction that the police and sanitary regulations were as complete as the ill-constructed and insecure building would admit of. The number of prisoners confined there at this time are about 250, embracing white and colored, young and old, male and female. A due regard was observable

the prisoners are compelled, to the number of lot and 15, to occupy a small cell without the slightot ventilation. In reference to this some of our number were compelled to retire. The session has been an unusually protracted one in consequence of the very heavy dockes and the fact that the hourable court deemed it proper, for reasons of a public nature, to adjourn for a mouth.
During the recess a large number of coses had accumulated, which has required much labor to get through with. The docket embraced rime
